Bali is small, just 140 Km by 80 Km and lies between Java, the most highly populated and influential of all the islands. Bali goes under many names. Some call it the 'island of the gods', others Shangri-La. The 'last paradise', the 'dawning of the world' and the 'centre of the universe' are yet more names for this truly beautiful tropical island

The ocean sunfish (Mola mola) or common mola is the heaviest bony fish in the world, with an average weight of 1000 kilograms. The species is native to tropical and temperate waters around the globe.

It resembles a fish head without a tail, and its main body is flattened laterally.

Sunfish live on a diet that consists mainly of jellyfish.
