Not far away, in the blue seas of the South Pacific, are the extraordinary islands of Fiji. A scenic country inhabited by a people who invented the true meaning of hospitality .

Fiji is ideal for divers as it not only offers great reefs but also those additional activities between dives that are often unavailable in other South Pacific regions.

The name, "bull shark", comes from the shark's stocky shape, broad, flat snout and aggressive unpredictable behaviour.

The bull shark is well known for its unpredictable, often aggressive behavior. Many scientists agree that since bull sharks often dwell in shallow waters, they may be more dangerous to humans than any other species.

Unlike most other marine sharks, bull sharks tolerate fresh water.
